

Escape the Granny: House Floor Plan

Upper floor, ground floor and basement

Conventions

Unit	1 grid square = 1 m = 1 Unity unit
Origin	(0,0) is the south-west outer corner of the house, shared by all three levels
Axes	+ x east, + z north, + y up
Levels	basement $y = -3$, ground $y = 0$, upper $y = +3$ (floor-to-floor 3 m)
Walls	0.2 m thick, 3 m tall, centered on the plan lines; room sizes are to wall centerlines
Doorways	1.2 m wide, 2.2 m tall unless listed otherwise

Plan legend

P (open circle)	Prisoner spawn
G (filled circle)	Granny spawn
K (grey circle)	Key spot
H (dashed circle)	Hiding spot
Thick wall gap with arc	Door and its swing; the front door D1 is drawn heavier
Dashed line	Railing around a stair opening (about 1 m tall)
Hatched area	Stair opening in the floor

1 Staircases

There are three separate staircases. Each flight is 1.5 m wide with a 4.2 m run and a 3 m rise (16 risers of 18.75 cm). Give each flight one smooth ramp collider; walking over individual step colliders in VR causes motion sickness.

Stair	Connects	x range	z range	Up	Bottom and top
A	Ground hallway and upper gallery	5 to 6.5	8.6 to 12.8	North	Bottom from hallway (O1). Top lands at (5.75, 13.4); step east onto the gallery.
B	Living room and basement	8.2 to 12.4	0 to 1.5	East	Top behind basement door D11 at $x = 12.4$. Bottom lands at (7.4, 0.75).
C	Living room and upper hallway	16.5 to 18	1.5 to 5.7	North	Bottom at (17.25, 0.75). Top lands on the east landing, z 5.7 to 8.

Stairs A and C sit at opposite ends of the house, so there are always two routes between the ground and upper floors. Stairs B serve only the basement.

2 Plans

3 Rooms

Floor	Room	From (x, z)	To (x, z)	Size (m)	Connects to

Basement	Basement	(4, 0)	(14, 7)	10×7	Stairs B only (dead end)

4 Doors and openings

A span such as “ $z = 8$, x 3.4 to 4.6” means the gap sits in the wall on line $z = 8$ between those x values.

ID	Between	Wall line	Span	Width (m)
U1	Master bedroom and Hallway	$z = 8$	x 3.4 to 4.6	1.2
U2	Bathroom and Hallway	$x = 3$	z 6.4 to 7.6	1.2
U3	Guest bedroom and Hallway	$z = 5$	x 3.4 to 4.6	1.2
U4	Guest bedroom and Wardrobe room	$x = 5$	z 1.0 to 2.2	1.2
U5	Nursery and Hallway	$z = 8$	x 9.4 to 10.6	1.2
U6	Nursery and Gallery	$x = 8$	z 11.0 to 12.2	1.2

H14	Upper	Closet	(17.25, 0.75)	Closet behind U11

6 Notes for the team

Chase loops

- Whole house: stairs A up, upper hallway, stairs C down, living room, hallway, stairs A.
- Upper: Hallway, Nursery (U5), Storage (U8), Hallway (U7); the gallery door U6 adds a second entry to the nursery.
- Upper: Sewing room has two hallway doors (U9, U10).
- Ground: Hallway, Kitchen, Living room, Hallway; and Bedroom 1, Shared bath, Bedroom 2.

Dead ends

- Basement: one exit through stairs B, with two key spots and one hiding spot.
- Wardrobe room, linen closet and both small closets: good for hiding, but no way out if found.

Greybox

- Build and walk one floor at a time: ground, then upper, then basement.
- The upper gallery is 1.5 m wide. The open stairwell beside it should keep it from feeling cramped, but check it in the headset early.
